An old Scotchman, sitting in one of our stores, recently, remarked that he had noticed one thing in this country which he could never understand. He had no doubt it was the simplest kind of a thing, and for that reason he had no ver asked for information, as he did not want to be laugher at. But now he would risk it, and satisfy himself. "Why," said he, "do people put bells on their cattle!" "Well, now," said the person addressed, "if you were to make a guess, what would you suppose it is done for!" "Well," replied the Scotchman, "I don't know for certain; but I think it is done, so that when dogs get after the cattle, the bells will make such a clatter as to frighten them away!" were sitting at their front door, enjoying the cool of the ing, when they noticed, out in the street, near the hillside, an Englishman, a sort of professional character, stoop-ing over, intently watching something on the ground, and appearing highly edified, frequently taking a hearty chuckle. Presently he looked around, and seing the indies, beckened

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Few Words to the Ladies. Many ladies, particularly mothers nursing, complain of a tired, listless feeling, or complete exhaustion, on arising in the morning. On the wife and mother devolves the re-sponsibility of regulating the duties of the household. Her cares are numerous, and the mental as well as the physical powers are frequently called into requisition. She often finds her slightest occupation a weary task and existence a burden, while at the same time she has no regular disease. Hostotter's Stomach Bitters, if reserted to at this period, will prove an unfailing remedy for this annoying lassitude. The effects of this potent agent are soon seen in the rosy check and elastic step of the head of the family, as with restored health and renewed spirits she takes her accustomed place in the family circle. If this friend in need be regu-larly used, those depressing symptoms will never be com-plained of, and not only would lassitude not be experienced. but many diseases following its advent he avoice, medical agent it has no equal, while its pleasing flavor and healthful effects have made it a general favorite. It is free from all properties calculated to impair the system, and its operations are at once mild, soothing and efficient. All who have used the Bitters attest its virtues and commend its favority.

GETTING MARRIED. ESSATS FOR YOUNG MEX, on great SOCIAL FVILS and ABUSES, which interfere with MARRIAGE—with sure

We conversed yesterday with a gentleman who was at Eldorado last Sunday, and saw the wife and child of Mr. Murdock in a moment after the terrible tragedy. It seems that Mrs. Murdock had worried over threats that had been made against her husband growing out of the county seat contest. It seems that a letter was sent to Mr. Murdock in which was a picture of a man with a rope around his neck. She has stated that for some time she could constantly see that picture. This and the tornado and other things undoubtedly unsettled her mind. She had hid the razor in the bottom of a trunk two or three weeks before, and had contemplated the act all of the time.

Only the morning of the deed she asked her husband which of their two children he liked best, and the child killed was not the one he expressed a preference for. The child was about sixteen months old, and died almost instantly. Mrs. Murdock's windpipe was cut nearly off, but the jugular vein was not injured. The windpipe was at once sewed up, and she is improving fast. She could talk quite well yesterday morning. If those who make threats against and talk about newspaper men knew the effect on the female members of their families, there would probably be less of it done. This insanity undoubtedly grew out of threats made against Mr. Mnrdock because of his course on a county seat election.

Ever since the letter with the picture of a man

Ever since the letter with the picture of a man with a rope around his neck was received, she has watched whenever strangers came into town, to see if they were not after husband. Just before the deed was done, Hon. Sidney Clarke and one or two other gentlemen rode into town, and she saw them, and thought she saw a rope in the wagon, and that they had come to hang her husband. She immediately seized her child and went out behind the house and cut her child's throat from ear to ear and then her own.—Toneka Record.

Logan Would Not Decline. Among the young fellows ambitious of Presidential honors is Gen. Logan. We know he expects to run, for we met him a few days since at the Fifth Avenue, and when we asked him who was his candidate, he couldn't think of anybody. He was in a complete quandary.

"How about Grant, General?" we asked.

"Well, Grant—why, Grant has had one term in the White House, and I'm inclined to think as Mr. Gressley does."

"Wouldn't Sumner run well!"
"No. Sumner is too old; besides Grant would kill him with anti-office influence."
"How about Chase!"
"Oh, he died in '68. He's very dead."

"Conkling!"
"He's too d—d peacocky; too many people hate im personally."
"Ain't Fenton a strong man!"

"Well, yes; Fenton is strong man I"
"Well, yes; Fenton is strong and oily, too. He'd make a better Warwick than king. Then Conkling would run himself out of his patent leather shoes to kick him, even if it hurt his foot more than his collespen." than his colleague."

And so we went on through Colfax, Blaine, But-House, but Logan could not think of a man—no, not one—who would be able to lead us to victory in 1872 .- New Orleans Republican.

James Parton writes to the Golden Age, that "what floored Mr. Colfax" was that he had no private secretary, and the reason that he had none was because his salary was too small to afford it. The point is an excellent one, and its great beauty is that it isn't so, and everybody knows it. Mr. Todd has been the Vice President's Secretary al-Todd has been the Vice President's Secretary almost as long as he has been a politician, and not a very good one at that. Mr. Parton's application, however, is none the less good. The depreciation of money has left the salaries of our leading officials at about one-third of their original figures, and when one is, like Mr. Colfax, possessed of no private fortune, and unfortunate enough to be honest, his only reward for years of labor in the nation's behalf is poverty and disease.

Look Here, Mr. Thief? YOU chap who took a Harness from my stable, one night hast week, are given a reasonable time to bring it back or you will have the assistance of an officer of the law. It spoils the sett, and won't look just right in your possession to one who knows it.
